DREW IS OFF ON AN ADVENTURE!

It's time to bid a fond farewell to our beloved Assistant Harbormaster as he begins his next adventure. Drew Dixon & his significant other are headed north to Canada to spend more time together at their idyllic cabin on Savory Island, B.C. during the winter months. He hopes to be back in the Pacific Northwest during our warmer months and I'm sure that I am not alone in looking forward to hearing of his adventures.

I would like to thank Drew on all our behalf for his selfless service to our valued guests and his willingness to share his extensive knowledge of all things nautical.

I will certainly miss Drew but knowing that he's out there enjoying life is special knowledge.

A wet but mild October bodes well for November local cruising

October was indeed very wet, but our local weather was fairly mild for the most part. Sure there was almost a Storm of the Century, but boat travel was possible more often than not and the City of Langley is as inviting as ever.

Winter Moorage Available!

Moorage is available at the Harbor from October through April and presents a great opportunity to have your boat near for winter boating and fishing!

The Boatyard Inn

Our neighbor, The Boatyard Inn, is especially popular this time of year with our boating guests who want to bring their boats to Langley and spend a couple of nights ashore tucked away in comfort.

After holiday shopping and dinner at one of Langley's outstanding eateries, a romantic evening in one of The Boatyard Inn's studios, lofts or suites with the beautiful water views of Saratoga Passage cannot be beat.
